

TLI 2023 Call for Proposals & Reviewers

Call for Proposals

Successes, Challenges, and New Ideas: Effective Approaches in Teaching and Learning

34th Teaching & Learning Innovations Conference 2023

The Teaching and Learning Innovations Conference is returning in 2023! The theme of the 34th Teaching and Learning Innovations Conference, *Successes, Challenges, and New Ideas: Effective Approaches in Teaching and Learning, will focus on how teaching and learning endeavours have persevered and evolved during the pandemic. In addition to showcasing your teaching innovations, TLI 2023 will be a time for reflection together to unpack and collectively exhale after three years. On Wednesday, May 17, we will connect in person. Thursday, May 18 will be delivered synchronously online.

We invite all University of Guelph faculty, sessionals, instructors, staff, and students to submit a proposal at TLI 2023.

Session Formats:

- 20-minute presentation (in-person or synchronous online)
- 50-minute workshop (in-person or synchronous online)
- A printed poster (in-person)
- A short video presentation (asynchronous online)

To submit a proposal, please use this TLI Proposal Submission Form (Qualtrics).

Proposals are due on March 10, 2023 (11:59pm). This date will not be extended.

Call for Reviewers:

We also seek proposal reviewers. If you are you interested in being a reviewer, please indicate this on your proposal submission form. If you are not submitting a proposal but would still like to be a reviewer, please e-mail us at otl@uoguelph.ca. You're welcome to e-mail us with any questions or if you're seeking further information.

UNIVERSITY of GUELPH

OFFICE of
TEACHING AND LEARNING